Engineering graduate students, want to learn how to build your own team? Learn how to meet other people in your career field, find new research partners, make a good first impression to that one very famous professor at a conference? Find out how this Friday!

Carli Maldonado, Career Development Facilitator, will give a workshop tailored to engineering graduate students on how to accomplish all of these things and many others when it comes to creating your professional network.

This is the first of a few career development seminars to be hosted by ECE GSA this semester. Coffee and donuts will be provided!

ECE Bldg., Room 132
October 7, 2016, 11AM